MANY KILLED IN BLOODY ELECTION CLASH

Inspiring Armistice Day Program Sunday Night

FRAUD CHARGED AND CITIZENS ADVANCE ON CITY HALL

NOGALES, Ariz., Nov. 12.—More than a dozen Mexicans were killed, including one city trustee of Etcheboa, Sonora, and scores were wounded in a bloody clash between police and a mob, according to advices. The fight resulted when a crowd of more than one thousand citizens advanced on the city hall protesting against alleged frauds in the municipal election.

POST HOLDS MEET AT HEADQUARTERS

The Nowlin Post of the American Legion will hold their annual armistice day meeting at the club rooms tonight. The members and the ladies of the Auxiliary will be present in large numbers.

NEW HAVEN.—Although Maryland gave Yale a great scare Saturday, Yale players today praised the team for its clean sportsmanship and the management said that another game would be scheduled next year if possible and would be made one of the features of the schedule. The Yale squad came out of the game without injuries.

WATCHING BABY
(When He's Six Months Old)

(BEN B. HUNT)

As we stand there at the cradle,
You and I sweet mother dear,
Don't you love to watch our baby
Smile and coo with prattling cheer?

See that dimple! watch it sparkle,
See it dance upon his cheek,
Gently moving, swaying, drifting
Ev'ry time he tries to speak.

Watch him try to pull my hair out!
Now he has me by the nose!
Oh, you darling little fellow
With the sweetness of the rose.

Put him on his little 'tummy'!
Watch him, watch him try to crawl!
Oh the foxy little rascal!
Now I ten to him bawl.

Hey he cries'! and we are frantic
For we know not what to do,—
He's a new king in our palace
And he rules both me and you.

But in loving arms you take him
And enfold him to your breast
And you bid his tender spirit
Into sweet and peaceful rest;

Now his dainty little fingers
Softly play upon your face,
As the moonbeams play so gently
On the rose they softly grace.

Night time comes and baby slumbers
And his spirit seems to roam
Far away to realms of glory
With the angels in their home.

For he smiles like sleeping angels
And his face is pure and sweet,
And it may be God Almighty
With the angels lets him meet.

O, if men could keep such pureness
Till the peak of life is reach'd,
Never on the shoals of failure
Would their bark of life be beach'd;

Never would their souls be bleeching
On imbatter'd shores of time,
Nor on burning sands of hatred
Where are washed the wrecks of crime.

They'd take the impelling journey
Over life's aweless sea,
On ship well mann'd by Faith's great crew
As every ship should be.

And a little child shall lead them
Thru its innocence alone
For such tender, artless prayers
Would exalt a heart of stone!

CHARGES CLUBMAN DROVE HUSBAND TO DEATH.

Mrs. Richard Dieters and children. Wire.

While in the office of District Attorney Dodd, of Brooklyn, N. Y., asking that an investigation be made into the disappearance of her husband, Richard, whose coat and hat were found on the middle span of one of the bridges over the East River, Mrs. Emma Dieters gaed into the face of a man who entered the room. "That's him!" she shricked. "Don't let him get away!" Then she fainted. The man was E. M. Jeffe, assistant sales manager of the Brooklyn Edison Company and a prominent member of the Crescent Atheltic Club, where Dieters had been telephone operator. Mrs. Dieters charged that her husband had been threatened because members of the club believed he had picked up love letters from a waste-paper basket and was going to give them to the wife of the man involved.

Germany Hungers In Midst Of Plenty

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN (By Mail to United Press.)—Germany thought it hungered during the war.

Today it begins to know the real meaning of the word hunger.

Strangely enough, hunger in the midst of plenty!

Bursting barns in East Purssia, Pommern, Brandenburg and elsewhere. Foodless homes in Berlin and other big cities; coalless dwellings to accentuate the gnawing at the stomach.

That is the picture presented in Germany as the leaves of Autumn are shaken off by the cold blasts of winter. Growing unemployment and short-time labor in the belching mills and mines of Prussia, the Ruhr and Rehine land are part of the answer for this hunger.

Won't Sell for Paper.

But, on the other hand, the fatal inflation policy of post-war days has led to a situation where today the peasants and big landowners sell nothing to the metropolis against paper money. The Government hopes its new rentenmark will be ready by mid-November. Then the peasants are ready to disgorge.

But the month intervening between the time of writing and the accomplishment of this new currency is a month fraught with misgivings for those who rule the nation and those who would support their families.

Thousands Jobless

In the last few weeks thousands of workers have been thrown onto the streets. Those still working must content themselves with two or three days work weekly. For this they have been getting about $1 or $2. This means about two huge black bread loaves, a few pounds of potatoes, a little lard to spread on the bread.

Nothing more.

That is the picture in the homes of trained machinists.

Doles Insufficient

For the unemployed, their doles from the State the past week or two have not been sufficient even to buy one four-pound loaf of black bread.

One wonders outside perhaps at "food riots," and hears that "communism" is growing in Germany. There is nothing political about empty stomachs, however.

A workless dole equal to 2 cents a day has been the amount the State has been paying recently.

This buys no bread and no potatoes.

FLIER FALLS TO DEATH BEFORE THOUSANDS

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Lieutenant Benjam R. McBride, pilot from Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, Mich., plunged to his death here Sunday in the presence of a crowd of 50,000 celebrating Armistice Day.

The accident, which was caused by failure of the motor in the small pursuit ship McBride was flying, was the only event which marred a tremendous celebration here of the signing of the armistice.

Nearly 100,000 attended numerous community meetings and demonstrations throughout the city.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Jenkins and McGlone, Harvard stars, knocked out in the Princeton game, were not badly hurt and both will be able to play against Yale. Both received knee injuries. The Harvard yard was still celebrating the victory over Princeton today.

Former Guard At Walton's Mansion Gives Testimony

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 12.—M. E. Martin, formerly a guard at Walton's mansion, testified before the impeachment court that Walton received several threatening letters while he was mayor of Oklahoma City, as well as while governor. He declared that Walton's children were not allowed to walk to school alone because of threats against the family. In an interview Walton declared that he intended to fight the battle against the Klan whether he is impeached or not. Walton expects to be impeached, he said.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Three hundred and twenty three million dollars reduction in Federal taxes is projected in a tax revision program drafted by Secretary Mellon and placed before the House Ways and Means Committee. He urged that a $310,000,000 surplus be applied to reductions than soldiers bonus.

Body Of Miss Leon Brice Found In River

Much gratification was expressed here Sunday when it was learned that the body of Miss Leon Brice, formerly of Mexia, drowned in Waller Creek near Austin Friday November 2, had been found. The corpse for which search had proceeded diligently had been in progress almost nine days when recovered about 8 miles below where the tragedy occurred and about 150 yards from where Waller creek empties into the Colorado river. The particulars concerning the location of the body have not been learned here.

Announcement that burial services were to be held at Corsicana this afternoon was made and quite a number of the friends of the young lady from here attended.

Concerning the drowning, The Austin American reported the incident as follows:

Miss Leon Brice, 20, of Corsicana, niece of Mrs. John Servatius of Austin, is dead and her aunt is at her home at the Austin Country club in a state of physical and nevrous collapse as a result of a harrowing experience yesterday morning with the flood waters of Waller creek.

Death came to the girl when she proved unable to rescue herself from the rush of water that carried a Ford roadster, in which the two women were riding, from a low bridge across the stream in the Country club grounds.

All through the day yesterday and last night volunteers conducted a search for the ill-fated girl's body. At the Servatius home were the bereaved parents, waiting for news from the searchers, after having arrived during the night in response to a message of the disaster.

With the flood in Waller creek subsiding, volunteers waded the stream bed from the scene of the accident to First street crossing, a distance of more than three miles, without discovering the body. Late yesterday other volunteers, armed with hooks, probed the deep backwater at the mouth of the creek.

Volunteers Called to Assist in Search

Volunteers to assist in the search for the body of Miss Brice, drowned in Waller creek, are requested by Police Chief James H. Rogers to report at police headquarters this morning at 7.30 o'clock. Every effort is to be made to locate the body today. Police officers and firemen have been in the searching party since yesterday morning and will continue to assist today.

Car Carried Into Stream

Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock Miss Brice and her aunt started from the Country club for the depot, where the young woman was to catch a train for Corsicana. On coming to the low bridge that crosses Waller creek just inside the Country club grounds they found water rushing over it two feet deep. Knowing that John Servatius, manager of the Country club, had but a few minutes before crossed on the submerged bridge, they did not hesitate. In midstream they felt their car swerve and in a moment the rush of water had carried the vehicle, a Ford roadster, over the side of the bridge and into the deep channel.

Rowley to Rescue.

Both women jumped to save themselves. Mrs. Servatius was fortunate. She caught one of the wheels of the overturned car and was rescued by C. A. Rowley, movie picture operator, 612 East 41st street, a nearby resident, who was attracted by her screams. In a vain effort to rescue the girl, whose body had disappeared downstream John Servatius, also attracted by his wife's cries, dived headlong into the flood. In but a few moments the torrent had whisked him a mile down the channel and, realizing that the buffeting he had received by the raging water had about spent his strength, he gripped a friendly fence wire that flashed before him in a second and with a last desperate effort pulled himself ashore.

"It was terrible," were the words

LIONS TAKE UP MUNICIPAL PROBLEMS

The Lions club session of Friday at noon was one of the most interesting of any held in many weeks. It is a forerunner of a year of service to the community, according to members of the Mexia Lions organization.

Lion Weaver Barnett presided.

He called for reports from various committeemen who had been appointed to study just why the Charter voted upon earlier in the Fall had failed, thus accepting the challenge of President J. K. Hughes of the Lions club for every citizen to feel free and able to speak out in meting, talking straight from the shoulder and discuss every topic of community interest with the single purpose of the common good and best interests of a better Mexia.

John Sweatt made asplendid talk in this connection. Lion Sweatt is also President of the Chamber of Commerce and expressed the hope that all differences may be ironed out frankly and in good fellowship and all work as one for a bigger and better community.

It was pointed out at the luncheon that Mexia is operating under a charter used only in the smallest of towns and that before Mexia could hope to grow rapidly or do everything sought and asked for by the citizens and tax payers that a new charter and a new system would have to be devised, and accepted.

Lion R. D. Morgan of the Water Department also contributed interestingly, with a review of the present conditions of the water department, its water supply and plans in prospect for taking care of future Mexia. He explained that the present water supply would not justify an immediate reduction of water rates. To reduce them would be hazardous, in his opinion, as it would offer an inducement for water patrons to use considerably more water, which would tax the resources to a dangerous limit.

This matter and the other questions raised will be gone into more thoroughly at future meetings of the club and it is hoped that something beneficial to the community will result.

RECORD MADE IN SUNDAY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE AT K. C.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—A new record for attendance at a man's bible class was made here yesterday by the class of the First Baptist Church when 52,512 attended the services. Only about 50 per cent of the men could get inside the Convention Hall, where the class met. The remainder stood in parks around the building.

By setting the record, the Kansas City class won a contest with Long Beach men's bible class. The Long Beach organization had an attendance of 31,044.

PRINCETON, N. J.—Princeton accepted defeat by Harvard rather philosophically and turned toward the Yale game Saturday with no less confidence Only minor injuries were suffered in the game and the regular team will be able to start against Yale.

Vast Audience Pay Tribute To Ending Of War

The Methodist church was taxed Sunday night at 7:30 by citizens of all ages who thronged the large auditorium, Sunday School rooms, balconies and entrances, to hear the inspiring patriotic program brought to them under the auspices of the Nowlin Post of the American Legion. Elderly women, gray haired men, citizens of all ages and babes in arms were present. Social barriers were absent, denominational doctrines were forgotten for the moment, political beliefs were ignored, as loyal Americans of the city and community assembled to consider for the hour and a half the meaning of Armistice Day and their duties to their country in times of Peace.

The program began with army like exactness, on the dot at 7:30 and closed on the second at 9:00 o'clock. The Legion was congratulated generously for the snap and precision with which every feature of the varied program was carried out. From the moment "America" was sung, throughout the succeeding numbers preceding the address of the evening, patriotism was evident in every breast. Dr. R. B. Jackson gave his famous yells in the midst of the singing, which but feebly expressed the deepest sentiments of love and loyalty that all experienced. From pathos to humor, from humor to pathos, the varied program shifted, with the entire audience participating in the song service ably directed by Rev. Joe Jeffers of the First Paptist church.

All churches of the city disbanded for the program and united in making the program one long to be remembered here. Long before the hour of opening, the building was filled with eager auditors and spectators and many left unable to secure standing room.

At 7:25, the pulpit filled with those who were to have a part in the program, and with members of the Legion.

At 7:30 Post Commander Owen D. Watkins announced "America." As the first strains of the hymn of love sung by all Americans everywhere were sounded, the audience rose as one and joined lustily and with loyal enthusiasm in the national music.

Rev. G. T. Reaves, pastor of the First Christian church, read the scriptural lesson, making a few timely applications.

The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Joe Jeffers.

This was followed by the semi-ritualistic opening prescribed by the American Legion, the Post Commander being the first speaker and ably leading up to the subjects to be discussed in brief by two members of the Legion. Warren S. Dale, an attorney of this city, was the first of these. R. M. Andrews, Principal of the High School, was the next. Their addresses complete are given elsewhere in today's issue of the Mexia Daily News.

Rev. Jeffers then took charge of the song service which for the next fifteen minutes formed an unforgettable happy and helpful part of the program. A medley of war songs, numbers heard in war camp and on battle line; words and tunes which enlived the soldiers' life and which were on his lips often when he went up to battle and down to death aroused the fervent spirit of patriotism, creating a splendid atmosphere for the speakers who were to follow.

Miss Beth Ellington at the piano and T. A. Oldfeather, cornetist contributed greatly to the occasion. The singing ended with Dixie, the congregation standing while the old song stirred as it did in days gone by.

Miss Mary Adele Woodard followed with a reading which touched every heart, the number being presented in her most accomplished manner.

Mr. Jeffers preceded the address of the evening with a solo, the audience joining in the chorus.

REV. ANDREWS GOES TO CONFERENCE

Rev. W. B. Andrews, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Mexia, leaves Tuesday for the Annual Conference of this denomination which will be held in Temple Mr. Andrews has closed his first year of service in Mexia. That service has been fruitful and the record carried in reports to Temple will show that with all her oil, with all her industry and growth, that the citizens of this community are not prone to put first things second in their lives.

Financially, the record of Mexia Methodists during the closed Conference year has been very pleasing to the membership and to the pastor According to the item carried in Sunday's News, more than $25 000 has been raised without any spectacular effort during the past twelve months.

From the point of membership, a noteworthy gain is shown on the rolls of the church register many of the e being received by profe sion of faith

The year closes with a better spirit prevailing than was noticeable or even lacking in Mexia churches during the oil boom This "better spirit" is characteristic of all churches here now

The stranger in Mexia today may feel sure of receiving a warm hand clasp now when he goes to any of the Mexia churches and such a condition is conducive to spiritual growth and to a better feeling in the community

Mr Andrews is to be congratulated as leader of such a congregation He and his splendid family are appreciated in Mexia and it is hoped that they will be with us another period of service here

Mexia pastors are daily called upon to perform ministerial duties which in most communities of the population of Mexia are performed by more than twice as many minister The accept the burden as it is and a golden opportunity and never murmur They set an example of citizenship which should inspire every man and woman to greater zeal and efforts

Mexia must be a revival Make it of Mexia

WASTE AUDIENCE

ed the speaker of the evening Judge Charle Ingram of Wharton as a man due much praise for his part in the war He explained that Judge Ingram left his office as County Attorney and joined the colors at the first call He was also referred to as a speaker of power and one who would bring a message that the auditors would not soon forget

Judge Ingram followed with a great address telling the three fold purpose in putting the occasion The speaker is both a splendid orator and his message had the effect sought, in making those who heard him better Americans His address in full will appear in next Sunday's issue of The Mexia Daily News

Commander Watkins thanked the citizens for their help, the churches for their unison of action, and then turned over the services to Rev Andrews, pastor.

Rev. Andrews made a few announcements, stating among other things that this closes his year of service in Mexia and expressing his love for the community served The other pastors were also called upon to make any announcements they had in mind It was stated that a message on "Patriotism" would be delivered at the First Baptist church Monday night, the speaker to be Dr. Bass, a Baptist minister of Waco. Attention was also called to the meeting of the Anti-Saloon League at the close of the week, which will be held in Mexia Rev Andrews urged co operation with the Anti-Saloon League as one of the two organizations active in behalf of the enforcement of the Volstead Act

Comrade A. Garland Adair, Chairman of the Program Committee, and also Chairman of the Finance Committee of the American Legion, at the conclusion of the service, called upon the citizens to help the Nowlin Post in its financial straits and in its endeavor to exist, also appealing for co-operation with the Ladies Auxiliary

"Taps" sounded by T A Oldfather brought the audience to its feet, veterans to "Attention" and the program to an end

New Extension To H. & T. C. Passenger Depot

Hope Brothers of Marlin have the contract and are now at work on a 10 foot extension to the H & T C passenger depot to be used by the express company

The extension is on the south end and is brick It is being built by a local contractor with all local workmen and local material, something a little out of the ordinary for railroad companies, as they usually do their own work with their own men

The extension will be ready for use in about sixty days and will be a valuable addition to the present depot as well as a convenience for express patrons as the office will be more accessible to the business part of the city

POST COMMANDER OWEN F. WATKINS

At the opening of the American Legion Program, at the Methodist Church, Nowlin Post Commander Owen F. Watkins spoke as follows:

"With all thankfulness we look back to that Armistice Day which ended the World War. We remember how gladly men stood erect in the sun once more and let their fires shine out at night without concealment, how the load of anxiety fell in a moment from a world of women's hearts, how a war-torn world turned back to peace with profound gratitude to the God who gave it and to the men who paid for it with their lives.

Yet we miss the sterner virtues that war brought forth. In some way life was nobler, richer, then. In some way we lost, as well as gained, on that Armistice Day.

War produces the greatest etremexs in human life. It brings men to sanity; yet it drives them mad. It reveals them magnificent in sacrifice, and revolting in brutality. It is a sacrament and a shambles. There was a half truth in that doctrine of the prophets of war, for war does breed splendid and essential virtues.

"But it breeds them at too terrible a cost. Peace must breed in us the same virtues without that cost A great American said before the war. 'Martial virtues . . intrepidity, contempt of softness, surrender of private interest, and obedience to command, must still remain the rocks on which states are built The martial type of character can be bred without war.' How then can we cultivate these martial virtues in time of peace?"

COMRADE WARREN S. DALE

Comrade Warren S Dale followed, as follows:

"We believe that contempt of softness must be and can be cultivated in time of peace. History shows how often civilization has sapped the manhood of a race, how often conquerors have in turn been conquered by the culture they overcame. How difficult it has been to achieve culture without decay. Can we achieve culture without decay?

"War ended our ease for a time,
'Comfort, content, delight,
The age's slow brought gain,
They shriveled in the night,
Only ourselves remained
To face the naked days
In silent fortitude'

"War plunged men from lives of comfort and ease into a misery of mud and vermin, cold and heat, filth and fatigue. Thus indeed, they learned contempt of softness, for a time, to live and laugh in the face of hardship

"War breeds contempt of softness, but there is a lasting hardihood bred better in time of peace Over all the world industry calls with its myriad hazards and hardships More and more men turn their eyes to the sturdier life of the open, drawn by a hunger for the hills and soil. Not only do new regions and virgin ranges summon their conquerors, but over all this half-explored earth great projects call for the pioneers of peace, the sappers of civilization to bridge the gulf or tunnel the mountains; to irrigate or drain, to seek out and conquer disease Thus can we breed hardihood without war. Thus shall we achieve strength without destruction"

COMRADE R M ANDREWS THE SPIRIT OF SELF-SACRIFICE

My friends it has been said that war is the supreme test of man . . Comrades that tonight the noble and the brave men . . . in this memorial, worthy of . . . we could be true to . . . of their service Let us . . . that the spirit of self-sacrifice . . . that they showed . . . that the future may . . . the fruitful harvest for . . . did not participate in the . . . we are called upon to make the supreme effort we too were making what part of . . . service We were ready if the occasion of war should require it, to offer our lives and everything we possessed in the sacred cause of our country

In our present hour of peace and prosperity it may prove profitable for us to reflect upon the example of those who did make the supreme sacrifice in the World war, and determine if we can the message which they have left for us

Let us picture in our nation a scene in Flanders during the early days of the world conflict Let us follow the barbed wire entanglements, the shell torn trenches, and the battle scarred earth We hear the ceaseless boom boom boom, of heavy artillery While behind us are the numerous little wooden crosses which bend over the graves of the dead—our dead! In every air picture In its essential aspects the scene remains unchanged we all see the trenches, we still hear the ceaseless roar of the guns Yet over the graves of the fallen warriors Nature has graciously spread a mantle of beautiful flowers,—red poppies, as though to soothe the rest of those who are sleeping their last sleep. Now we have the scene of John McCrae's immortal poem

"In Flanders' fields the poppies grow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place, and in the sky
The larks still bravely singing fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

"We are the dead; short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunsets glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.

"Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flanders' fields."

The message of this wonderful little poem is this "Hold high the torch of civilization, and carry on!"

This thought was forcibly driven home to me by a tragedy which cost the life of a young man I knew,—Nordquist by name. He was a splendid young soldier, with all the qualities of character which men admire. It was my honor and privilege to recommend him for a commission in the United States army. In an action in which the Americans were going forward to capture a German stronghold, Nordquist went over the top Yet a high explosive shell burst near him, and a fragment severed both his legs near the hips. As he lay there, helplessly weltering in his own blood, a brother officer rushed over to him, and cried, "Is there anything I can do for you, old fellow?"

The answer was, "No, I am past help Carry on!"

That is the spirit of America's finest manhood; the spirit of those who forget self in the exigencies of a greater cause; the spirit of those who say, "Never mind me, but carry on!"

Providence has spared our lives in the World War that we may carry on in the noble arts of peace The virtue of self sacrifice may not shine so gloriously now as it did then, and yet it is none the less apparent Let us learn to be forgetful of ourselves in the duty of service to others In every activity of life, in the home, in civic affairs, in what ever affects the interests of our nation, and as citizens in the Kingdom of God on earth, let us present ourselves as living sacrifices, for the furtherance of every good and useful thing

BRUNKS' COMEDIANS TONIGHT AT OPERA HOUSE

Tonight Brunks' Comedians will open a week's engagement at the Opera House in the four-act comedy drama, "Her Worthless Husband."

Vaudeville will be seen between each of the four acts and music will be furnished by the Brunks' feature orchestra of eight pieces.

The Brunks' company will change play, vaudeville and music each night.

The brass band will give a concert in front of the theatre at 7:15 and the overture will begin at 7:45 followed by curtain promptly at 8:15.

The Mexia Black Cats did a little better Friday than they did earlier in the week when they met defeat at the hands of the Corsicana Tigers. They should have turned their scoreless tie with Teague into a victory but too many fumbles and apparently lack of practice proved a menace to them.

Next week-end the strong team from Ennis comes to Mexia to play the Black Cats, the following week the locals will play either Kosse or Hubbard.

Baylor certainly raised herself in the football world Saturday at Waco when they held the undefeated team of the Longhorns to a tie. Texas stands at the top of the list by having defeated some of the strongest teams in the south and Saturday's game put Baylor on a par. Looks like there is going to be an awful muddle over the Southwestern conference championship.

The S. M. U. Mustangs as usual came out of Saturday's game with the long end of the score, that is going to make the Thanksgiving game between Baylor and S. M. U. the second best game in the Southwest.

Neither Harvard or Prinseton were ble to score a touchdown in the first f the Big Three battles played at rinceton Saturday but Harvard upset he dope and got away with a field oal and a touchdown which netted them 5 points to the Princeton 0.

Our Contribution To the World War

On this the anniversary of the ending of the great world war it is appropriate to give a list of the young men who went out from Mexia and gave their lives to the great cause of peace and security.

One of our young men was killed in battle, Ilanthus R. Nowlin, son of Mr. Ab Nowlin.

One died in France of pneumonia, Dr. Gibson, son of the late Capt. T. J. Gibson.

One served throughout the war in the aviation service and was killed when his plane felt in South America shortly after hostilities ceased. This was "Red" Easterwood, who was a rising young business man of Mexia when Uncle Sam entered the war, and sold his business and enlisted in the aviation corps.

Three died in camps in this country, as follows:

Robert Bains, son of L. A. Bains, died at Camp Bowie.

Tom Yeldell, son fo Capt. Jack Yeldell, died at Camp Travis.

Wilosn Kollman, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kollman, died at Camp Travis.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Storey visited in Fort Worth Sunday, with her mother, Mrs. M. E. Roberts.

SAFETY FIRST RULES FOR AUTOMOBILISTS.

Some automobile "don'ts"

Here are a few simple "Don'ts" for motorists that will make automobiling safer for driver passenger and pedestrian. If you're teaching someone else to drive, keep your hands off the wheel and near the emergency brake. It's safer. Don't mix booze and gasoline. Such a mixture is likely to end in death. Don't try to hug your girl with one arm and drive with the other. You're both likely to get hurt

U. S. MAY WIN OLYMPICS

By HENRY L FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—America, it is generally known, is in real danger of finishing second in the Olympic games at Paris next summer.

Those who have followed the development of athletics in Sweden and Norway since the 1920 games in Antwerp know that these two nations will make a most powerful bid for the championship

It is fortunate that the American officials are aware of the existing conditions and are willing to admit that Uncle Sam has a job on his hands

With all its overwhelming natural advantages it is hard to reason how any small nations could take the Olympic championship away from the United States But it is possible

Any number of bad breaks can happen to reduce the strength of the American team Injuries to Matt McGrath, Joie Ray and Sol Butler cut down the points in Antwerp, and if three great stars are hurt before or during the Paris games it will be much more serious

Because of a lack of co-operation and a faulty system in organizing and conducting the trial events in 1920 the American team was not as strong as it could have been

It will have to be 100 per cent strong this year, and it probably will be, as the various controlling bodies are working in complete harmony and they have assembled a good organization to select and train the team

Petty politics and little jealousies destroyed harmonious relations between the various organizations in 1920 The A A U regarded as rather presumptious and assuming the efforts of the inter-collegiate association to have a voice in selection of the team and a part in its management

Rather admirably this year, the A. A U is stepping aside and instead of insisting upon being the one big boss has agreed to be one of the bosses under a general committee

Say what you will, officers of the army and navy are good executives They are trained to handle big problems such as are presented by the mobilization selection, transportation and maintenance of an army for 400 athletes, which is no small sized job

Commander Mayo, who had charge of the Navy athletes on the 1920 team, stepped out of a rear rank when things were going badly in Antwerp and he suggested, if he did not actually carry out, the changes which stopped the threatened revolt of the American team

In Major General Henry T Allen, the American committee this year has a most competent adviser and executive and the committee can consider itself fortunate to have at its command such valuable assistance

If any baseball man can develop and bring out the potential possibilities of the Chicago White Sox in the 1921 pennant race, Frank Chance ought to be that man.

Chance knows baseball and he is of the aggressive type that can get the best out of material.

The "Peerless Leader" did nothing sensational with the Boston Red Sox, but no one could do better with the material offered him in Boston in one year

Kid Gleason was no bust with the Sox. Injuries and bad breaks caused the club to be a disappointment in the 1923 campaign and it must be considered that the club had no right to be considered as a real contender.

And the Boys Will Come Marching In.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 12.—Old Fort Concho, famous in days gone by as a frontier post, again is to resound to the tramp of marching legions and the bustle of an army camp.

Abandoned for more than forty years, the state is going to rehabilitate the old post and use it as headquarters of troop G., 112th cavalry, Texas National Guard

The old fort was built in 1869 and for many years housed a company of Indian scouts. Later it was a supply station for federal troops in their wars on the marauding Comanche Indians.

ARMISTICE DAY

'In Flanders Field the poppies grow
Between the crosses, row on row—'

All our thought on Armistice Day revert to Flanders Fields—to France—to Belgium—to scores of battlefields where the flower of American manhood and the sons of her noble allies suffered, bled, triumphed gloriously to "Make the World Safe for Democracy"

Armistice Day, November 11, 1917, marked the collapse of Germany Wherever you were, you were thrilled by the celebration that followed the news that hostilities had ceased; that the German hope of world domination had been forever shattered, that Victory at last was ours!

So long as there is a spark of gratitude; so long as there is an iota of patriotism in the warm heart of America, we shall celebrate the day. We shall honor the patriots who returned victorious We shall revere the memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice that the world might still be safe

Drink Water If Back Or Kidneys Hurt

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means, drink lots of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—(Adv.)

To Resume Gold Mining in Texas

LLANO, Texas, Nov. 12.—Texas' only gold mine, idle for several years, is to be worked again soon.

The Llano Gold and Rare Metals Company has been granted a permit to do business in Texas and will soon take over the old mine, located five miles from here, which was closed down several years ago on account of financial difficulties.

The ore is easily reached, being only a few feet under surface. A trace of platinum ore also has been found.

The Llano Gold and Rare Metals Company is chartered under the laws of Oklahoma. The incorporators are W. A. Mason, W. B. Green, and McCarthy Moore, all of Dallas.

ROLLING PIN PUT TO A NEW USE

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 12.—Court attaches are searching the divorce records here to find data for a case presented by a Dallas woman in suing for divorce. She says her husband threw the family rolling pin at her and "nothing but my agility saved me from serious injury or death." Court records reveal this is the first time a man has taken woman's traditional weapon and used it on her.

NEW YORK BALL PARKS FOR BOUTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Boxing in major league baseball parks has been sensationally successful as a financial venture. Suggestions that baseball parks be used only for baseball in the future was not based entirely upon the ethical grounds that boxing was not a worthy public pal of the "grand national pastime."

Ban Johnson's announcement that the American League would not allow the use of the parks next summer for boxing was slightly premature, according to recent reports.

Johnson's order will have to be affirmed by the owners of the eight clubs in the league and although Col. Jacob Ruppert said at the time the announcement that he was in favor of it, there are reasons to believe that the Yanks may demand a few reservations.

When the Yankee owners were discussing the use of their new stadium for boxing it was understood that Col. Ruppert did not favor the use of the grounds for weekly shows, but that he felt it would not be harmful to stage one or more big bouts and he may still be of the same opinion.

While the Yankees must have made a little money from boxing last season, the Giants found their extension into other fields highly unprofitable.

The Giants got a big take out of the Dempsey-Firpo fight but it was not enough to overcome the losses sustained on three other championship bouts that were perviously staged in the Polo Grounds.

Until the Giants are able to get back what they lost it is improbable that the club will allow the National League to put the ban on boxing without a fight.

There is no doubt that baseball parks are not proper places to handle fights crowds in, and it is just as much a fact that the playing fields are always badly damaged by fight crowds.

It is silly, however, to get lofty about it and assume that boxing, as boxing itself, would be a blemish on baseball just because the baseball parks were used for fights.

The principal objection some of the club owners have to boxing in ball parks is thar the clubs outside of New York and Philapelphia do not have the opportunity to cash in on it and they feel that everything should be done to discourage the publicity that boxing gets which baseball men figure they have the sole right to—without cost.

MANY KILLED IN BLOODY ELECTION CLASH

Inspiring Armistice Day Program Sunday Night

FRAUD CHARGED AND CITIZENS ADVANCE ON CITY HALL

NOGALES, Ariz., Nov. 12.—More than a dozen Mexicans were killed, including one city trustee of Etcheboa, Sonora, and scores were wounded in a bloody clash between police and a mob, according to advices. The fight resulted when a crowd of more than one thousand citizens advanced on the city hall protesting against alleged frauds in the municipal election.

POST HOLDS MEET AT HEADQUARTERS

The Nowlin Post of the American Legion will hold their annual armistice day meeting at the club rooms tonight. The members and the ladies of the Auxiliary will be present in large numbers.

NEW HAVEN.—Although Maryland gave Yale a great scare Saturday, Yale players today praised the team for its clean sportsmanship and the management said that another game would be scheduled next year if possible and would be made one of the features of the schedule. The Yale squad came out of the game without injuries.

WATCHING BABY
(When He's Six Months Old)

(BEN E. HUNT)

As we stand there at the cradle,
You and I sweet mother dear,
Don't you love to watch our baby
Smile and coo with prattling cheer?

See that dimple! watch it sparkle,
See it dance upon his cheek,
Gently moving, swaying, drifting
Ev'ry time he tries to speak.

Watch him try to pull my hair out!
Now he has me by the nose!
Oh, you darling little fellow
With the sweetness of the rose.

Put him on his little 'tummy'!
Watch him, watch him try to crawl!
Oh the foxy little rascal!
Now listen to him bawl.

How he cries!! and we are frantic
For we know not what to do,—
He's a new king in our palace
And he rules both me and you.

But in loving arms you take him
And enfold him to your breast
And you lull his tender spirit
Into sweet and peaceful rest;

Now his dainty little fingers
Softly play upon your face,
As the moonbeams play so gently
On the rose they softly grace.

Night time comes and baby slumbers
And his spirit seems to roam
Far away to realms of glory
With the angels in their home.

For he smiles like sleeping angels
And his face is pure and sweet,
And it may be God Almighty
With the angels lets him meet.

O, if men could keep such pureness
Till the peak of life is reach'd,
Never on the shoals of failure
Would their bark of life be beach'd;

Never would their souls be bleaching
On imbitter'd shores of time,
Nor on burning sands of hatred
Where are washed the wrecks of crime.

They'd take the impelling journey
Over life's avoidless sea,
On ship well mann'd by Faith's great crew
As every ship should be.

And a little child shall lead them
Thru its innocence alone
For such tender, artless pureness
Would exalt a heart of stone!

CHARGES CLUBMAN DROVE HUSBAND TO DEATH.

Mrs Richard Dieters and children

While in the office of District Attorney Dodd, of Brooklyn, N. Y., asking that an investigation be made into the disappearance of her husband, Richard, whose coat and hat were found on the middle span of one of the bridges over the East River, Mrs. Emma Dieters gaed into the face of a man who entered the room. "That's him!" she shrieked. "Don't let him get away!" Then she fainted. The man was E. M. Jeffe, assistant sales manager of the Brooklyn Edison Company and a prominent member of the Crescent Atheltic Club, where Dieters had been telephone operator. Mrs. Dieters charged that her husband had been threatened because members of the club believed he had picked up love letters from a waste-paper basket and was going to give them to the wife of the man involved.

Germany Hungers In Midst Of Plenty

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN (By Mail to United Press.)—Germany thought it hungered during the war.

Today it begins to know the real meaning of the word hunger.

Strangely enough, hunger in the midst of plenty!

Bursting barns in East Purssia, Pommern, Brandenburg and elsewhere. Foodless homes in Berlin and other big cities; coalless dwellings to accentuate the gnawing at the stomach.

That is the picture presented in Germany as the leaves of Autumn are shaken off by the cold blasts of winter. Growing unemployment and short-time labor in the belching mills and mines of Prussia, the Ruhr and Rehine land are part of the answer for this hunger.

Won't Sell for Paper.

But, on the other hand, the fatal inflation policy of post-war days has led to a situation where today the peasants and big landowners sell nothing to the metropolis against paper money. The Government hopes its new rentenmark will be ready by mid-November. Then the peasants are ready to disgorge.

But the month intervening between the time of writing and the accomplishment of this new currency is a month fraught with misgivings for those who rule the nation and those who would support their families.

Thousands Jobless

In the last few weeks thousands of workers have been thrown onto the streets. Those still working must content themselves with two or three days work weekly. For this they have been getting about $1 or $2. This means about two huge black bread loaves, a few pounds of potatoes, a little lard to spread on the bread.

Nothing more.

That is the picture in the homes of trained machinists.

Doles Insufficient

For the unemployed, their doles from the State the past week or two have not been sufficient even to buy one four-pound loaf of black bread.

One wonders outside perhaps at "food riots," and hears that "communism" is growing in Germany. There is nothing political about empty stomachs, however.

A workless dole equal to 2 cents a day has been the amount the State has been paying recently.

This buys no bread and no potatoes.

FLIER FALLS TO DEATH BEFORE THOUSANDS

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Lieutenant Benjam R. McBride, pilot from Selfridge Field, Mount Clemens, Mich., plunged to his death here Sunday in the presence of a crowd of 50,000 celebrating Armistice Day.

The accident, which was caused by failure of the motor in the small pursuit ship McBride was flying, was the only event which marred a tremendous celebration here of the signing of the armistice.

Nearly 100,000 attended numerous community meetings and demonstrations throughout the city.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Jenkins and McGlone, Harvard stars, knocked out in the Princeton game, were not badly hurt and both will be able to play against Yale. Both received knee injuries. The Harvard yard was still celebrating the victory over Princeton today.

Former Guard At Walton's Mansion Gives Testimony

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 12.—M. B. Martin, formerly a guard at Walton's mansion, testified before the impeachment court that Walton received several threatening letters while he was mayor of Oklahoma City, as well as while governor. He declared that Walton's children were not allowed to walk to school alone because of threats against the family. In an interview Walton declared that he intended to fight the battle against the Klan whether he is impeached or not. Walton expects to be impeached, he said.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Three hundred and twenty three million dollars reduction in Federal taxes is projected in a tax revision program drafted by Secretary Mellon and placed before the House Ways and Means Committee. He urged that a $310,000,000 surplus be applied to reductions than soldiers bonus.

Body Of Miss Leon Brice Found In River

Much gratification was expressed here Sunday when it was learned that the body of Miss Leon Brice, formerly of Mexia, drowned in Waller Creek near Austin Friday November 2, had been found. The corpse for which search had proceeded diligently had been in progress almost nine days when recovered about 8 miles below where the tragedy occurred and about 150 yards from where Waller creek empties into the Colorado river. The particulars concerning the location of the body have not been learned here.

Announcement that burial services were to be held at Corsicana this afternoon was made and quite a number of the friends of the young lady from here attended.

Concerning the drowning, The Austin American reported the incident as follows:

Miss Leon Brice, 20, of Corsicana, niece of Mrs. John Servatius of Austin, is dead and her aunt is at her home at the Austin Country club in a state of physical and nevrous collapse as a result of a harrowing experience yesterday morning with the flood waters of Waller creek.

Death came to the girl when she proved unable to rescue herself from the rush of water that carried a Ford roadster, in which the two women were riding, from a low bridge across the stream in the Country club grounds.

All through the day yesterday and last night volunteers conducted a search for the ill-fated girl's body. At the Servatius home were the bereaved parents, waiting for news from the searchers, after having arrived during the night in response to a message of the disaster.

With the flood in Waller creek subsiding, volunteers waded the stream bed from the scene of the accident to First street crossing, a distance of more than three miles, without discovering the body. Late yesterday other volunteers, armed with hooks, probed the deep backwater at the mouth of the creek.

Volunteers Called to Assist in Search

Volunteers to assist in the search for the body of Miss Brice, drowned in Waller creek, are requested by Police Chief James H. Rogers to report at police headquarters this morning at 7:30 o'clock. Every effort is to be made to locate the body today. Police officers and firemen have been in the searching party since yesterday morning and will continue to assist today.

Car Carried Into Stream

Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock Miss Brice and her aunt started from the Country club for the depot, where the young woman was to catch a train for Corsicana. On coming to the low bridge that crosses Waller creek just inside the Country club grounds they found water rushing over it two feet deep. Knowing that John Servatius, manager of the Country club, had but a few minutes before crossed on the submerged bridge, they did not hesitate. In midstream they felt their car swerve and in a moment the rush of water had carried the vehicle, a Ford roadster, over the side of the bridge and into the deep channel.

Rowley to Rescue.

Both women jumped to save themselves. Mrs. Servatius was fortunate. She caught one of the wheels of the overturned car and was rescued by C. A. Rowley, movie picture operator, 612 East 41st street, a nearby resident, who was attracted by her screams. In a vain effort to rescue the girl, whose body had disappeared downstream John Servatius, also attracted by his wife's cries, dived headlong into the flood. In but a few moments the torrent had whisked him a mile down the channel and, realizing that the buffeting he had received by the raging water had about spent his strength, he gripped a friendly fence wire that flashed before him in a second and with a last desperate effort pulled himself ashore.

"It was terrible," were the words

LIONS TAKE UP MUNICIPAL PROBLEMS

The Lions club session of Friday at noon was one of the most interesting of any held in many weeks. It is a forerunner of a year of service to the community, according to members of the Mexia Lions organization.

Lion Weaver Barnett presided.

He called for reports from various committeemen who had been appointed to study just why the Charter voted upon earlier in the Fall had failed, thus accepting the challenge of President J. K. Hughes of the Lions club for every citizen to feel free and able to speak out in meting, talking straight from the shoulder and discuss every topic of community interest with the single purpose of the common good and best interests of a better Mexia.

John Sweatt made asplendid talk in this connection. Lion Sweatt is also President of the Chamber of Commerce and expressed the hope that all differences may be ironed out frankly and in good fellowship and all work as one for a bigger and better community.

It was pointed out at the luncheon that Mexia is operating under a charter used only in the smallest of towns and that before Mexia could hope to grow rapidly or do everything sought and asked for by the citizens and tax payers that a new charter and a new system would have to be devised, and accepted.

Lion R. D. Morgan of the Water Department also contributed interestingly, with a review of the present conditions of the water department, its water supply and plans in prospect for taking care of future Mexia. He explained that the present water supply would not justify an immediate reduction of water rates. To reduce them would be hazardous, in his opinion, as it would offer an inducement for water patrons to use considerably more water, which would tax the resources to a dangerous limit.

This matter and the other questions raised will be gone into more thoroughly at future meetings of the club and it is hoped that something beneficial to the community will result.

RECORD MADE IN SUNDAY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE AT K. C.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—A new record for attendance at a man's bible class was made here yesterday by the class of the First Baptist Church when 52,512 attended the services. Only about 50 per cent of the men could get inside the Convention Hall, where the class met. The remainder stood in parks around the building.

By setting the record, the Kansas City class won a contest with Long Beach men's bible class. The Long Beach organization had an attendance of 31,044.

PRINCETON, N. J.—Princeton accepted defeat by Harvard rather philosophically and turned toward the Yale game Saturday with no less confidence Only minor injuries were suffered in the game and the regular team will be able to start against Yale.

Vast Audience Pay Tribute To Ending Of War

The Methodist church was taxed Sunday night at 7:30 by citizens of all ages who thronged the large auditorium, Sunday School rooms, balconies and entrances, to hear the inspiring patriotic program brought to them under the auspices of the Nowlin Post of the American Legion. Elderly women, gray haired men, citizens of all ages and babes in arms were present. Social barriers were absent, denominational doctrines were forgotten for the moment, political beliefs were ignored, as loyal Americans of the city and community assembled to consider for the hour and a half the meaning of Armistice Day and their duties to their country in times of Peace.

The program began with army like exactness, on the dot at 7:30 and closed on the second at 9:00 o'clock. The Legion was congratulated generously for the snap and precision with which every feature of the varied program was carried out. From the moment "America" was sung, throughout the succeeding numbers preceding the address of the evening, patriotism was evident in every breast. Dr. R. B. Jackson gave his famous yells in the midst of the singing, which but feebly expressed the deepest sentiments of love and loyalty that all experienced. From pathos to humor, from humor to pathos, the varied program shifted, with the entire audience participating in the song service ably directed by Rev. Joe Jeffers of the First Paptist church.

All churches of the city disbanded for the program and united in making the program one long to be remembered here. Long before the hour of opening, the building was filled with eager auditors and spectators and many left unable to secure standing room.

At 7:25, the pulpit filled with those who were to have a part in the program, and with members of the Legion.

At 7:30 Post Commander Owen F. Watkins announced "America." As the first strains of the hymn of love sung by all Americans everywhere were sounded, the audience rose as one and joined lustily and with loyal enthusiasm in the national music.

Rev. G. T. Reaves, pastor of the First Christian church, read the scriptural lesson, making a few timely applications.

The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Joe Jeffers.

This was followed by the semi-ritualistic opening prescribed by the American Legion, the Post Commander being the first speaker and ably leading up to the subjects to be discussed in brief by two members of the Legion. Warren S. Dale, an attorney of this city, was the first of these. R. M. Andrews, Principal of the High School, was the next. Their addresses complete are given elsewhere in today's issue of the Mexia Daily News.

Rev. Jeffers then took charge of the song service which for the next fifteen minutes formed an unforgettable happy and helpful part of the program. A medley of war songs, numbers heard in war camp and on battle line; words and tunes which enlived the soldiers' life and which were on his lips often when he went up to battle and down to death aroused the fervent spirit of patriotism, creating a splendid atmosphere for the speakers who were to follow.

Miss Beth Ellington at the piano and T. A. Oldfeather, cornetist contributed greatly to the occasion. The singing ended with Dixie, the congregation standing while the old song stirred as it did in days gone by.

Miss Mary Adele Woodard followed with a reading which touched every heart, the number being presented in her most accomplished manner.

Mr. Jeffers preceded the address of the evening with a solo, the audience joining in the chorus.

Post Commander Watkins introduc-

REV. ANDREWS GOES TO CONFERENCE

Rev. W. B. Andrews, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Mexia, leaves Tuesday for the Annual Conference of this denomination which will be held in Temple. Mr. Andrews has closed his first year of service in Mexia. That service has been fruitful and the record carried in reports to Temple will show that with all her oil, with all her industry and growth, that the citizens of this community are not prone to put first things second in their lives.

Financially, the record of Mexia Methodists during the closed Conference year has been very pleasing to the membership and to the pastor. According to the item carried in Sunday's News, more than $25,000 has been raised without any spectacular effort during the past twelve months.

From the point of membership, a noteworthy gain is shown on the rolls of the church register, many of these being received by profession of faith.

The year closes wit ha better spirit prevailing than was noticeable or even lacking in Mexia churches during the oil boom. This "better spirit" is characteristic of all churches here now.

The stranger in Mexia today may feel sure of receiving a warm hand clasp now when he goes to any of the Mexia churches and such a condition is conducive to spiritual growth and to a better feeling in the community.

Mr. Andrews is to be congratulated, as leader of such a congregation. He and his splendid family are appreciated in Mexia and the hope is universal that they will be returned for another period of service here.

Mexia's pastors are daily called upon to perform ministerial duties which in most communities of the population of Mexia are performed by more than twice as many ministers. They accept the burden as if it was but a golden opportunity and never murmur. They offer an example of citizenship which should inspire every man and woman to greater zeal and efforts.

Mexia ministers are real Makers of Mexia.

They are assets to theentire community.

VAST AUDIENCE

ed the speaker of the evening, Judge Charles Ingram of Wharton, as a man due much praise for his part in the war. He explained that Judge Ingram left his office as County Attorney and joined the colors at the first call. He was also referred to as a speaker of power and one who would bring a message that the auditors would not soon forget.

Judge Ingram followed with a great address, telling the three-fold purpose inspiring the occasion. The speaker is in truth a splendid orator and his masterly message had the effect sought, in making those who heard him better Americans. His address in full will appear in next Sunday's issue of The Mexia Daily News.

Commander Watkins thanked the citizens for their help, the churches for their unionsn of action, and then turned over the services to Rev. Andrews, pastor.

Rev. Andrews made a few announcements, stating among other things that this closes his year of service in Mexia and expressing his love for the community served. The other pastors were also called upon to make any announcements they had in mind. It was stated that a message on "Patriotism" would be delivered at the First Baptist church Monday night, the speaker to be Dr. Bass, a Baptist minister of Waco. Attention was also called to the meeting of the Anti-Saloon League at the close of the week, which will be held in Mexia. Rev. Andrews urged co-operation with the Anti-Saloon League as one of the two organizations active in behalf of the enforcement of the Volstead Act.

Comrade A. Garland Adair, Chairman of the Program Committee, and also Chairman of the Finance Committee of the American Legion, at the conclusion of the service, called upon the citizens to help the Nowlin Post in its financial straits and in its endeavor to exist, also appealing for co-operation with the Ladies Auxiliary.

"Taps" sounded by T. A. Oldfather brought the audience to its feet, veterans to "Attention" and the program to an end.

New Extension To H. & T. C. Passenger Depot

Hope Brothers of Mexia have the contract and are now at work on a 40 foot extension to the H. & T. C. passenger depot to be used by the express company.

The extension is on the south end and is brick. It is being built by a local contractor with all local workmen and local material, something a little out of the ordinary for railroad companies, as they usually do their own work with their own men.

The extension will be ready for use in about sixty days and will be a valuable addition to the present depot, as well as a convenience for express patrons, as the office will be more accessible to the business part of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Storey visited in Fort Worth Sunday, with her mother, Mrs. M. E. Roberts.

POST COMMANDER OWEN F. WATKINS

At the opening of the American Legion Program, at the Methodist Church, Nowlin Post Commander Owen F. Watkins spoke as follows:

"With all thankfulness we look back to that Armistice Day which ended the World War. We remember how gladly men stood erect in the sun once more and let their fires shine out at night without concealment, how the load of anxiety fell in a moment from a world of women's hearts, how a war-torn world turned back to peace with profound gratitude to the God who gave it and to the men who paid for it with their lives.

Yet we miss the sterner virtues that war brought forth. In some way life was nobler, richer, then. In some way we lost, as well as gained, on that Armistice Day.

War produces the greatest etremexs in human life. It brings men to sanity; yet it drives them mad. It reveals them magnificent in sacrifice, and revolting in brutality. It is a sacrament and a shambles. There was a half truth in that doctrine of the prophets of war, for war does breed splendid and essential virtues.

"But it breeds them at too terrible a cost. Peace must breed in us the same virtues without that cost. A great American said before the war. 'Martial virtues . . . intrepidity, contempt of softness, surrender of private interest, and obedience to command, must still remain the rocks on which states are built. The martial type of character can be bred without war.' How then can we cultivate these martial virtues in time of peace?"

COMRADE WARREN S. DALE

Comrade Warren S. Dale followed, as follows:

"We believe that contempt of softness must be and can be cultivated in time of peace. History shows how often civilization has sapped the manhood of a race, how often conquerors have in turn been conguered by the culture they overcame. How difficult it has been to achieve culture without decay. Can we achieve culture without decay?

"War ended our ease for a time,
'Comfort, content, delight,
The age's slow brought gain,
They shriveled in the night,
Only ourselves remained
To face the naked days
In silent fortitude.'

"War plunged men from lives of comfort and ease into a misery of mud and vermin, cold and heat, filth and fatigue. Thus indeed, they learned contempt of softness, for a time, to live and laugh in the face of hardship.

"War breeds contempt of softness, but there is a lasting hardihood bred better in time of peace. Over all the world industry calls with its myriad hazards and hardships. More and more men turn their eyes to the sturdier life of the open, drawn by a hunger for the hills and soil. Not only do new regions and virgin ranges summon their conquerors, but over all this half-explored earth great projects call for the pioneers of peace, the sappers of civilization to bridge the gulf or tunnel the mountains; to irrigate or drain; to seek out and conquer disease. Thus can we breed hardihood without war. Thus shall we achieve strength without destruction."

COMRADE R. M. ANDREWS THE SPIRIT OF SELF-SACRIFICE

My friends, it has been said that war is the supreme test of human virtues. Certain it is that it reveals the noblest and the basest in men. In its finer aspect, we may think of war as a fire test, which burns away the dross, and leaves the pure gold of human character. There is no virtue which glows more brilliantly amid the fires of war than the spirit of self-sacrifice. Under the impetus of this spirit men ordinarily thought selfish willingly and even cheerfully lay down their lives.

Many of us who are here tonight did not participate in the action across the seas; we were not called upon to make the supreme sacrifice; yet we, too, were imbued with the spirit of self-sacrifice. We were ready, if the exigencies of war should require it, to offer up our lives and everything we possessed in the sacred cause of our country.

In this present hour of peace and prosperity it may prove profitable for us to reflect upon the example of those who did make the supreme sacrifice in the World war, and determine if we can the message which they have left for us.

Let us picture in imagination a scene in Flanders during the early years of the world conflict. Let us visualize the barbed wire entanglements, the shell-torn trenches, and the battle-scarred earth. We hear ceaselessly the boom, boom, boom, of heavy artillery. A little behind us we see the numerous little wooden crosses which stand over the graves of the dead—our dead! In fancy a year passes. In its essential aspects the scene remains unchanged: we still see the trenches; we still hear the ceaseless roar of the guns. Yet over the graves of the fallen warriers Nature has graciously spread a mantle of beautiful flowers,—red poppies, as though to sotohe the rest of those who are sleeping their last sleep. Now we have the scens of John McCrae's immortal poem:

"In Flanders' fields the poppies grow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place, and in the sky
The larks still bravely singing fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

"We are the dead; short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunsets glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.

"Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flanders' fields."

The message of this wonderful little poem is this: "Hold high the torch of civilization, and carry on!"

This thought was forcibly driven home to me by a tragedy which cost the life of a young man I knew,—Nordquist by name. He was a splendid yound soldier, with all the qualities of character which men admire. It was my honuor and privilege to recommend him for a commission in the United States army. In an action in which the Americans were going forward to capture a German stronghold, Nordquist went over the top. Yet a high explosive shell burst near him, and a fragment severed both his legs near the hips. As he lay there, helplessly weltering in his own blood, a brother officer rushed over to him, and cried, "Is there anything I can do for you, old fellow?"

The answer was, "No, I am past help. Carry on!"

That is the spirit of America's finest manhood; the spirit of those who forget self in the exigencies of a greater cause; the spirit of those who say, "Never mind me, but carry on!"

Providence has spared our lives in the World War that we may carry on in the noble arts of peace. The virtue of self-sacrifice may not shine so gloriously now as it did then, and yet it is none the less apparent. Let us learn to be forgetful of ourselves in the duty of service to others. In every activity of life, in the home, in civic affairs, in what ever affects the interests of our nation, and as citizens in the Kingdom of God on earth, let us present ourselves as living sacrifices, for the futherance of every good and useful think.

The Mexia Black Cats did a little better Friday than they did earlier in the week when they met defeat at the hands of the Corsicana Tigers. They should have turned their scoreless tie with Teague into a victory but too many fumbles and apparently lack of practice proved a menace to them.

Next week-end the strong team from Ennis comes to Mexia to play the Black Cats, the following week the locals will play either Kosse or Hubbard.

Baylor certainly raised herself in the football world Saturday at Waco when they held the undefeated team of the Longhorns to a tie. Texas stands at the top of the list by having defeated some of the strongest teams in the south and Saturday's game put Baylor on a par. Looks like there is going to be an awful muddle over the Southwestern conference championship.

The S. M. U. Mustangs as usual came out of Saturday's game with the long end of the score, that is going to make the Thanksgiving game between Baylor and S. M. U. the second best game in the Southwest.

Neither Harvard or Prinseton were ble to score a touchdown in the first f the Big Three battles played at Princeton Saturday but Harvard upset he dope and got away with a field oal and a touchdown which netted them 5 points to the Princeton 0.

Our Contribution To the World War

On this the anniversary of the ending of the great world war it is appropriate to give a list of the young men who went out from Mexia and gave their lives to the great cause of peace and security.

One of our young men was killed in battle, Ilanthus R. Nowlin, son of Mr. Ab Nowlin.

One died in France of pneumonia, Dr. Gibson, son of the late Capt. T. J. Gibson.

One served throughout the war in the aviation service and was killed when his plane fell in South America shortly after hostilities ceased. This was "Red" Easterwood, who was a rising young business man of Mexia when Uncle Sam entered the war, and sold his business and enlisted in the aviation corps.

Three died in camps in this country, as follows:

Robert Bains, son of L. A. Bains, died at Camp Bowie.

Tom Yeldell, son fo Capt. Jack Yeldell, died at Camp Travis.

Wilosn Kollman, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kollman, died at Camp Travis.

U. S. MAY WIN OLYMPICS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—America, it is generally known, is in real danger of finishing second in the Olympic games at Paris next summer.

Those who have followed the development of athletics in Sweden and Norway since the 1920 games in Antwerp know that these two nations will make a most powerful bid for the championship.

It is fortunate that the American officials are aware of the existing conditions and are willing to admit that Uncle Sam has a job on his hands.

With all its overwhelming natural advantages it is hard to reason how any small nations could take the Olympic championship away from the United States. But it is possible.

Any number of bad breaks can happen to reduce the strength of the American team. Injuries to Matt McGrath, Joie Ray and Sol Butler cut down the points in Antwerp, and if three great stars are hurt before or during the Paris games it will be much more serious.

Because of a lack of co-operation and a faulty system in organizing and conducting the trial events in 1920, the American team was not as strong as it could have been.

It will have to be 100 per cent strong this year, and it probably will be, as the various controlling bodies are working in complete harmony and they have assembled a good organization to select and train the team.

Petty politics and little jealousies destroyed harmonious relations between the various organizations in 1920. The A. A. U. regarded as rather presumptious and assuming the efforts of the inter-collegiate association to have a voice in selection of the team and a part in its management.

Rather admirably this year, the A. A. U. is stepping aside and instead of insisting upon being the one big boss has agreed to be one of the bosses under a general committee.

Say what you will, officers of the army and navy are good executives. They are trained to handle big problems such as are presented by the mobilization selection, transportation and maintenance of an army for 400 athletes, which is no small sized job.

Commander Mayo, who had charge of the Navy athletes on the 1920 team, stepped out of a rear rank when things were going badly in Antwerp and he suggested, if he did not actually carry out, the changes which stopped the threatened revolt of the American team.

In Major General Henry T. Allen, the American committee this year has a most competent adviser and executive and the committee can consider itself fortunate to have at its command such valuable assistance.

If any baseball man can develop and bring out the potential possibilities of the Chicago White Sox in the 1924 pennant race, Frank Chance ought to be that man.

Chance knows baseball and he is of the aggressive type that can get the best out of material.

The "Peerless Leader" did nothing sensational with the Boston Red Sox, but no one could do better with the material offered him in Boston in one year.

Kid Gleason was no bust with the Sox. Injuries and bad breaks caused the club to be a disappointment in the 1923 campaign and it must be considered that the club had no right to be considered as a real contender.

ARMISTICE DAY
"In Flanders Field the poppies grow
Between the crosses, row on row—"

All our thought on Armistice Day revert to Flanders Fields—to France—to Belgium—to scores of battlefields where the flower of American manhood and the sons of her noble allies suffered, bled, triumphed gloriously to "Make the World Safe for Democracy."

Armistice Day, November 11, 1917, marked the collapse of Germany. Wherever you were, you were thrilled by the celebration that followed the news that hostilities had ceased; that the German hope of world domination had been forever shattered; that Victory at last was ours!

So long as there is a spark of gratitude; so long as there is an iota of patriotism in the warm heart of America, we shall celebrate the day. We shall honor the patriots who returned victorious. We shall revere the memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice that the world might still be safe.

Drink Water If Back Or Kidneys Hurt

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means, drink lots of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—(Adv.)

To Resume Gold Mining in Texas

LLANO, Texas, Nov. 12. —Texas' only gold mine, idle for several years, is to be worked again soon.

The Llano Gold and Rare Metals Company has been granted a permit to do business in Texas and will soon take over the old mine, located five miles from here, which was closed down several years ago on account of financial difficulties.

The ore is easily reached, being only a few feet under surface. A trace of platinum ore also has been found.

The Llano Gold and Rare Metals Company is chartered under the laws of Oklahoma. The incorporators are W. A. Mason, W. B. Green, and McCarthy Moore, all of Dallas.

ROLLING PIN PUT TO A NEW USE

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 12.—Court attaches are searching the divorce records here to find data for a case presented by a Dallas woman in suing for divorce. She says her husband threw the family rolling pin at her and "nothing but my agility saved me from serious injury or death." Court records reveal this is the first time a man has taken woman's traditional weapon and used it on her.

NEW YORK BALL PARKS FOR BOUTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Boxing in major league baseball parks has been sensationally successful as a financial venture. Suggestions that baseball parks be used only for baseball in the future was not based entirely upon the ethical grounds that boxing was not a worthy public pal of the "grand national pastime."

Ban Johnson's announcement that the American League would not allow the use of the parks next summer for boxing was slightly premature, according to recent reports.

Johnson's order will have to be affirmed by the owners of the eight clubs in the league and although Col. Jacob Ruppert said at the time the announcement that he was in favor of it, there are reasons to believe that the Yanks may demand a few reservations.

When the Yankee owners were discussing the use of their new stadium for boxing it was understood that Col. Ruppert did not favor the use of the grounds for weekly shows, but that he felt it would not be harmful to stage one or more big bouts and he may still be of the same opinion.

While the Yankees must have made a little money from boxing last season, the Giants found their extension into other fields highly unprofitable.

The Giants got a big take out of the Dempsey-Firpo fight, but it was not enough to overcome the losses sustained on three other championship bouts that were perviously staged in the Polo Grounds.

Until the Giants are able to get back what they lost it is improbable that the club will allow the National League to put the ban on boxing without a fight.

There is no doubt that baseball parks are not proper places to handle fights crowds in, and it is just as much a fact that the playing fields are always badly damaged by fight crowds.

It is silly, however, to get lofty about it and assume that boxing, as boxing itself, would be a blemish on baseball just because the baseball parks were used for fights.

The principal objection some of the club owners have to boxing in ball parks is that the clubs outside of New York and Philapelphia do not have the opportunity to cash in on it and they feel that everything should be done to discourage the publicity that boxing gets which baseball men figure they have the sole right to—without cost.
